

Humans love to create! Our creations might look different from each other's, but we all like to make stuff.

Let's get curious!

Scratch off a spot where you guess that...

- beads made from ostrich eggshells have been found (a).
- beads that survived a volcano have been found (b).
- beads made of shells have been found (c).
- beads were worn to show status, or how important someone is (d).
- glass beads are individually made in molds (e).
- the oldest beads have been found (f).
- beads made from shark teeth have been found (h).
- wooden sculptures of animals covered with beads are made (i).
- beads were important for trading and used as money (k).

People from all over the world, from all different time periods, have made and used beads to decorate themselves or their clothing!

Over the years and in different places, we might use different materials, shapes, colors, and patterns, but...

we all like bling!
